Fifty seventh Year in Flower Seeds

Sweet William.

Godetia or Satin Flower.

There's a Thrill in Trying Varieties You've Never Crown Before

Add Interest to Your Garden by Increasing the Number of Flowers You Know

All of the flowers mentioned here and many more are in the assortment of Mandeville Triple-Tested Flower Seeds. Every variety is tested first for germination, then for quality of flowers and then for completeness of mixture. This rigid testing insures superior flowers. You can't judge the blossoms by looking at the seeds. Plant Mandeville Triple-Tested Flower Seeds, the exclusive product of Mandeville & King Co., flower seed specialists for 57 years. The proof of their superiority is in the garden.

LILLIPUT TO GIANT ZINNIAS

LILLIPUT (Pompon). The last word in Zinnias. These sparkling little button flowers are excellent for borders and for cutting. This miniature Zinnia makes a charming addition to a brilliant family.

CUT-AND-COME-AGAIN. The semi-dwarf Zinnia that blooms profusely. Armsful may be gathered without leaving a single bare spot in the garden.

GIANT DAHLIA-FLOWERED. As the name indicates the petals are broad and loose, much like those of the Dahlia. The flowers are large, often measuring four or five inches across.

STANDARD DOUBLE ZINNIA. The patriarch of the family and still the favorite. The Mandeville mixture contains types of Picotee and Quilled varieties as well as all of the colors. It is a mixture of unusual merit.

NEW RADIO CALENDULA

As modern as the name implies. This latest Calendula is distinguished from all others by the round, quilled petals that radiate in all directions. The color is a flaming golden orange.

LARKSPUR AND DELPHINIUM

Larkspur is the annual. It blooms the first season. The picture at the right shows two lovely blues. In the Mandeville mixture there are also several pinks, a deep purple and a pure white. The flowers are excellent for cutting.

Delphinium is the perennial Larkspur. It does not bloom until the second season but then it lasts for several years. Note the brilliant spikes of blue in the perennial garden on the cover of this folder. No garden is complete without Delphinium.

CHINESE LANTERN PLANTS

These stalks of Chinese-red pods make attractive displays of color that are exceedingly helpful for interior decorating. They dry indoors and make a room more cheerful all winter long.

MASSES OF COLOR

Sometimes your color scheme demands a definite color in a certain spot in your garden. Here are our recommendations of the varieties that will best give you vivid masses of color.

Phlox Drummondii.

FEW varieties have the unique combination of virtues of Phlox Drummondii. The picture merely suggests the beauty of the flowers. Besides the colors represented, the Mandeville mixture includes a very brilliant red, a delicate cream and also those delightful combinations of red and white. If one were committed to the folly of choosing the one most desirable of all annuals, certainly Phlox Drummondii would deserve serious consideration.
